

Uninstalling Applications

If your PC is far too slow to use, it may be that you have too many applications installed. This takes up valuable hard drive space and system resources. It's not always obvious how to uninstall these applications, including sorting by size and last date used. Whatever version of Windows you have, check out this interactive, clickable video for more on this!